

I remember that this place in Universal was very fun. It was the snoopy studios. I remember that I explored around and bought some things for my family. It was very cosy and I had fun being there. My friends mostly spent our day there and went to the roller coaster too. There were a lot of Snoopy characters. Also the smell was normal and chill. There wasn't any taste and I was very excited to be there. Overall, this picture was the best experience because it was my first time being in USJ and it was a pretty fun day.
